Call For Action By States

Introduces Bill Allowing Governor To Operate Any Strikebound Plants

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 16—(P)—A bill to empower the governor to operate strikebound industrial plants under martial law was introduced in the Missouri Senate today by Sen. H. R. Williams (R) of Cassville.

"There's a revolution going on in this country," the Republican floor leader told his colleagues. "It's time for the states to take action to curb the spread of strikes all over America."

Williams said the president had not solved national labor problems and congressmen are more interested in their political fortunes than they are in the fortunes of America.

He said his bill hit at both management and labor.

"Management was glad to see some of these strikes," he declared. "They're just as guilty in some respects as labor."

Relates Plan
Under his plan, the difference between wages paid and wages sought by strikers would be impounded until the dispute was settled, then distributed according to the final agreement between employers and their workers.

An agreement between two or more persons to interfere with the transportation of food, medicine, fuel, clothing, building materials or other necessities would be deemed a conspiracy. It would be a felony, punishable by a two year prison term.

As Williams spoke, his son and son-in-law and their wives sat on the sidelines. Both young men wore their navy uniforms and Williams referred to them in his speech.

Can't Buy Civilian Clothes
"While these boys were gone fighting the dictators, we established dictators here at home," he declared.

"Returning service men can't even buy civilian clothes. You can't buy a car or build a new home. Everything in this country is tied up by one group."

Williams said his measure would give the governor authority to keep production going with state troops.

"Why shouldn't these plants be run while labor and management are ironing out their differences?" he asked.

DAR Board Meeting Here

A meeting of the executive board of the Missouri Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution convened at 11 o'clock this morning at Hotel Bothwell. After a luncheon in the Palm room, the afternoon business session was held, over which Mrs. Henry Wallace Townsend of Kansas City, state regent, presided.

Others present were: Mrs. Milton Duvall of Clarksville, vice regent; Mrs. John Leslie Jones of Blackburn, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Bates Smith of Richmond, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold Ross Weir of Fayette, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Harrison Scott of Columbia, registrar; and Mrs. Arthur Francis McNeely of St. Joseph, historian.

The board meeting was preceded at 10 a. m. by a meeting of committees of the local DAR organization to outline plans for the DAR state convention to be held in Sedalia in March. Mrs. Elza Berry of the Sedalia chapter is convention chairman.

Two Sedalians To be Priests

Two young men of the Sacred Heart parish will be ordained to the priesthood, becoming members of the C.P.P.S. order, on February 2. They are Francis Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Sullivan, 1119 West Sixth street and John Behen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Behen, 230 South Montauk avenue.

The Most Rev. George J. Rehring, auxiliary bishop of Cincinnati, ordained a class of eleven including the Sedalians to the diaconate early in December in the chapel of St. Charles seminary, Carthage, Ohio.

The Sedalians will celebrate their first solemn mass in Sacred Heart church Sunday, February tenth.

Discuss GI Demands to go Home

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, (left), and Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, (center) confer with Rep. Andrew J. May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee in Washington, D. C., shortly before the two five-star officers appeared before an informal joint session of Congress to answer GI demands for speedier demobilization.

Youngsters

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16—(P)—Harry E. Minty, park board head, finds a lot of grown-ups still can't control the childhood urge to ride miniature trains.

He reported 85,995 adults rode the Swope Park kids' train last year.

Of course, he adds, maybe they went along to keep junior from falling off but he can't believe it took them all.

Club Member Tells History Of Lionism

Sam Highleyman States it Dates Back to 1914

"Things that every Lion should know" was the subject of a talk by Samuel L. Highleyman, principal speaker at the Sedalia Lions club noonday meeting at the Bothwell hotel, today. Mr. Highleyman, one of the oldest members of the local organization conducted the program as a part of the Lions educational program.

He gave a complete history of the club beginning with the founding of Lions International in 1917. "However," he said, "the history of Lionism dates back to the year of 1914 when Melvin Jones conceived the idea of uniting, on the basis of unselfish service, business men's clubs in the United States which had no other affiliations. This was the distinct departure from the practice of forming business men's clubs primarily for business purposes."

Founded In 1917
"The International Association of Lions clubs however, was not founded until 1917, when an organizational meeting was held in Chicago, at which time approximately 150 clubs were represented. A call was issued at that time for the first annual convention to be held at Dallas, Tex., in October 1917. About fifty clubs were represented at this first convention," he said.

Mr. Highleyman told how the organization got its name, gave the Lions Code of Ethics and gave the Slogan of the organization, in closing his talk.

Guests at the meeting were Aubrey Owens of Cleo Cecil, Chris Roose of Herbert Hall, Capt. Russel Peck of Allen Duff.

Capt. Siegel is In Hospital

Capt. Eugene A. Siegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Siegel of Florence, was placed under the care of a navy doctor at St. John's hospital, Springfield, Ill., as the result of an automobile accident which occurred shortly after noon January 11 just north of Springfield. Injuries include the right knee cap broken in several places and cuts under the chin which required five or six stitches.

Capt. Siegel, after having been at home on leave since December 1, was traveling under orders to Great Lakes naval training station, Ill., for reassignment when the accident occurred. According to his report in a letter to his parents an automobile which was passing a line of cars hit "head on" with him after first colliding with another car while attempting to get back in its proper lane. Siegel's automobile was practically demolished, with the motor crushed almost back to the seat. He was cleared by the state patrol of all responsibility in the accident.

Siegel stated he was to be taken to Great Lakes January 12 or 13.

Threatening Letters Sent Adm. Kimmel

Brought Out During Hearing By Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(P)—Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel told a senate-house committee today that he received letters threatening him with death when he returned to this country after the Pearl Harbor disaster.

He gave the committee a copy of a letter he wrote to Adm. Harold R. Stark on February 22, 1942.

Kimmel Also Told

The Committee:

1—The army and navy in Hawaii cooperated to a "higher degree" than in many other areas.

2—But, he didn't know that the army had alerted only against sabotage just before the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

3—He futilely opposed the pre-war transfer of a battleship division from the Pacific to the Atlantic and carried to President Roosevelt a protest against the proposed shifting of a second division.

4—The navy recommended throwing Japanese spies in Hawaii "in the jug" but the army objected.

protesting that "in all justice the (Navy) department should do nothing further to inflame the public against me." Stark was chief of naval operations.

Kimmel wrote that he had just received notification from Secretary of the Navy Knox that he would be retired March 1, 1942, "without condonation of any offense or prejudice to future disciplinary action."

"I do not understand this paragraph unless it is to be published to the country as a promise that I will be disciplined at some future time," the letter added.

"I stand ready at any time to accept the consequences of my acts. I do not wish to embarrass the government in the conduct of the war."

Submit To Patience
"I do feel, however, that my crucifixion before the public has about reached the limit. I am in daily receipt of letters from irresponsible people over the country taking me to task and even threatening to kill me. I am not particularly concerned except as it shows the effect on the public of articles published about me."

Kimmel brought out the letter during questioning by Seth Richardson, committee counsel, about circumstances of his retirement from the navy.

Call Supreme Court Judge

Before the questioning, the investigators decided today to summon former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts as a witness.

The action was taken after Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the senate-house inquiry committee, questioned the completeness of the printed report on the reports commission's probe of Japan's attack at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941. The printed report was the only one made available to the congressional committee.

Ferguson said he would like to question Roberts not only about the possible omissions, but also concerning the conversation he reportedly had with President Roosevelt when he handed him the report January 24, 1942.

Roberts already has written the committee that the full report was published after it was turned over to the president.

Wm. E. Caulfield Dies

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16—(P)—William E. Caulfield, 74, former member of the Missouri legislature and brother of former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, died last night of heart disease.

Caulfield was a member of the house of representatives from 1919 to 1923 and served in the senate from 1925-1927.

Appear Before Committee on Road Problems

Urge Districts Be Permitted to Continue Activities

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16—(P)—Representatives of Missouri's special road districts converged on a house committee last night to urge that the districts be permitted to continue their road building activities.

The four bills before the committee, said speakers for the districts, will destroy their organizations.

The 1945 constitution permits the existence of such special districts, Allen McReynolds of Carthage, a constitutional convention delegate, told the committee members. But the bills as written prevent the districts from using road taxes collected in their areas for the work they have been handling many years.

One bill, he said, provides that all such tax money must be deposited with the county treasurer, but the bill carries no provision for crediting the district and permitting it to withdraw funds for road work.

"Pickles Them"
To a committee member's assertion that the bill complies with the constitution and preserves the road districts, McReynolds complained bitterly that "I wouldn't say it preserved them. I'd say it pickles them."

R. B. Oliver, Jr. of Cape Girardeau commended the work of the two special road districts in his county and said the bills as now written "strip special road districts of all their ability to function."

One bill, he said, "takes everything away from the districts except one-half the license fees on pool and billiard tables—I don't know why the author left that."

Oliver and other speakers urged that amendments offered by the road districts be incorporated in the bills to assure continuation of the districts. If there is "reasonable doubt" of the constitutionality of the bills thereafter, they said, the state supreme court could settle that.

The committee took the bills and the suggested amendments under consideration.

Truman Appeals To Unions

Asks Murray and Fairless to Reach Agreement In Wage Dispute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(P)—President Truman today appealed to CIO President Philip Murray and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., to reach agreement in their wage dispute.

The president called the two, who had been discussing their controversy in the cabinet room of the White House, into his office. He told them it was "vital to the interest of the country that an agreement be reached" and that he looked to them to make a settlement.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that Fairless and Murray went into Mr. Truman's office "soon after" their arrival at the White House.

Ross told reporters: "Soon after the conferees assembled in the cabinet room, all of them went into the office of the president where he spoke to Mr. Murray and Mr. Fairless."

"He told them it was vital to the interest of the country that they reach an agreement in the pending controversy. They then went back to their conference."

No Time Limit
Mr. Truman apparently placed no time limit for reaching an agreement, although an industry-wide strike of CIO-Steel Workers is scheduled to begin at 12:01 a. m. next Monday.

About an hour after the Murray-Fairless conference began, Price Administrator Chester Bowles arrived at the White House and was ushered into the President's office.

There was no immediate announcement whether Bowles' visit was connected with the steel conference.

Bowles and his OPA advisers reported have opposed granting steel price increases above $2.50 a ton. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, who has taken part in both of the White House conferences with Fairless and Murray, reportedly has favored granting the industry a greater increase.

Mr. Truman voiced definite optimism that the steel dispute would be settled before the strike deadline, now set for next Monday. He also told his news conference yesterday that he is hopeful for an end of the General Motors strike on the basis of the fact-finding board recommendations which the corporation thus far has refused to accept.

The president also sought to persuade principals in the meat packing industry wage dispute to resume bargaining here tomorrow, AFL and CIO union leaders said at Chicago. His request, through Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach, was received too late to head off the walkout which began at midnight, they said.

CIO Statement Later
An AFL official indicated willingness to call a halt and continue negotiations, however. A statement from the CIO was promised later.

Meanwhile, the author of the administration's fact-finding bill conceded that it was not likely to pass the senate in its present form.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) told a reporter, however, that the final version of the measure ought to provide a basis for legislative machinery which may include conciliation and voluntary arbitration of labor disputes.

The present fact finding boards appointed by Mr. Truman lack statutory authority, and it was to remedy this handicap that the president asked congress for legislation. The Ellender bill calls for a 30-day cooling off period in labor disputes and would give fact finding boards power to subpoena company records.

Sgt. Emil Morris, Jr., Is Back From The Pacific

S/Sgt. Emil R. Morris, Jr., who as a member of the 7th combat camera unit, had a Pacific-wide ovation assignment "as long as there was a story connected," returned to Sedalia Tuesday after precisely three years of army service.

Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil R. Morris, 1701 South Montgomery avenue, was overseas nearly two years. During that time he was on 21 different islands, and made repeat trips to several. This accounting does not include a rest furlough to Sydney, Australia.

The 21-year-old combat photographer, reported for active service on January 14, 1943, and received his honorable discharge on January 14, 1946. He plans to return to his former position as photo-engraver on the Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

Would Pension 'Salt of Earth'

Jefferson City, Jan. 16—(P)—The Missouri House of Representatives adopted a resolution today to put to popular vote a constitutional amendment proposal that farmers and farm laborers be pensioned by the state at the age of 65.

The resolution offered last June by Rep. G. W. Lane (D) of Pulaski county, was amended by the author to authorize the legislature to provide for the pensions and set their amounts.

In answer to a question by majority floor leader Randall Kitt (R) of Livingston county, Lane said he was limiting the benefits to farmers and farm laborers because politicians are always telling the ruralists that they are the "salt of the earth."

"Now," he said as he gazed around at the Republicans and Democrats, "if you love the farmer and shed tears for him as you have in the past political campaigns, don't forget him now."

If the Senate approves the resolution the constitutional amendment proposal would be put on the ballot for the coming general election.

Casteel Files For Senator

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16—(P)—Lt. Col. B. Marvin Casteel of St. Joseph filed today to contest U. S. Senator Frank Briggs' bid for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Casteel, currently stationed at Camp Polk, La., has advised friends here he expects to be released from the army duty in about two weeks.

His formal filing was recorded in the secretary of state's office by Cance Pool of state Democratic headquarters, on telegraphic authorization from Casteel.

Formerly superintendent of the Missouri state highway patrol, Casteel was state WPA supervisor before entering the army.

Thus far he and Briggs, who filed last week, are the only contestants for the Democratic nomination, although former state attorney general Roy McKittrick's name has been advanced as a potential candidate.

Casteel has not previously sought public office.

Bill for More House Members

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16—(P)—Bills to increase the Missouri house of representatives from 150 to 154 members and divide the new districts between Jackson and St. Louis counties have been introduced in the house to meet the 1943 constitutional requirements.

Under the new arrangement, effective with the start of the 1947 session, Jackson county's representation would be increased from 10 to 11. St. Louis county's from three to seven and St. Louis city's would be decreased from 19 to 18. Other districts would be unchanged.

Strike Briefs

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16—(P)—E. W. Phelps, general manager of Swift and Company told a reporter today that he had been forced out of his car this morning by 25 to 30 pickets at his plant and beaten by the men.

He said the men forced him to get a permit before they would let him enter the plant and asserted the strikers were throwing oil drums at cars.

The Swift plant in Kansas City is represented by an independent union whose workers voted yesterday against a strike. Phelps said the employees who were members of the independent organization returned to work this morning, but the plant was closed later when the employees were stopped by the CIO picket lines.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 16—(P)—Members of an independent packinghouse workers union employed at the Swift and Company plant in South St. Joseph voted last night 410 to 228 against a proposal authorizing a strike call at the plant.

Union officials said that less than half of the 1,500 members of the organization had voted.

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 16—(P)—Most of Flint's 27,000 school children continued a second day of enforced vacation today as state conciliator Robt. Lomasney intervened in the maintenance workers strike which has closed all but two of the city's 44 schools.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16—(P)—The St. Louis area's supply of staple foodstuffs, cut off for more than a week by a strike of drivers, was restored today when wholesale grocery firms reopened after officers of the drivers' union announced withdrawal of "roaming pickets" from city streets.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16—(P)—The St. Louis area was promised 70 per cent of normal meat supplies today while the rest of the country faced prospects of a meat famine because of a nationwide CIO-AFL packinghouse workers strike.

Last minute wage agreements were signed with 44 plants here late last night by the AFL cutters and butcher workers' union and union president Henry Friese said these plants will continue to operate regardless of the national strike.

M-K-T New Giant Diesel Locomotive Through Sedalia

About two hundred Sedalians, were congregated at the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway station Tuesday evening to watch the giant Diesel locomotive of the Katy lines roll into Sedalia.

It arrived at 6:05 o'clock and departed at 6:45 p. m. The new locomotive, No. 291, was pulling three business cars carrying officials of the company and seventy freight cars.

Officials with the train with the locomotive under test included H. M. Warden, Dallas, vice president and general manager; J. H. Little, superintendent of transportation, Denison; C. W. Watts, superintendent, Parsons; F. P. Stocker, superintendent and P. O. Ellis, assistant superintendent, both of Franklin; M. R. Cring, publicity director, St. Louis; W. E. Bergen, air brake inspector, Denison, and representatives of the Electro-Motive division of General Motors at their La Grange, Ill., plant.

Frank Miller, of Sedalia, was conductor with Engineer Connors, of Franklin, at the controls.

According to officials on board the train the performance of the new locomotive was very satisfactory and it seemed to pull the three business cars, seventy loaded freight cars over the rails of the company's line with apparent ease, making the grades and curves in accordance with expectations.

Mrs. Joy Smith presided over the business session and Miss Glenda McCampbell led the devotional service. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Green Ridge Rebekah Lodge No. 330 held its first meeting of the year the evening of January 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Edmondson of Windsor were Sunday guests of Mrs. Hamie Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Garrison and son, Billy, of Industry, Ill., were called to Green Ridge by the death of Mrs. Garrison's uncle, William Reed.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Mattie Clevenger January 6, which marked the first time in three years that all the children had been together. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Benny Clevenger, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clevenger and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Thacker and daughters of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clevenger and family of Sweet Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Jenkins of Higginsville and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vannoy and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Nelson and children of Ottumwa, Ia., have been guests of Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. True Ulmer.

Roland Mosley of Denver, Colo., is visiting his father, W. H. Mosley, and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Mosley, northwest of town.

Mrs. E. J. Sims has returned from Akron, O., after a several weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Harold Lawton, Mr. Lawton and children. She reports that Mrs. Lawton, who has been ill, is improved.

Mrs. Charles Stoddard has returned from Platte City, where she was called by the death of her mother, Mrs. J. F. Porter, who died suddenly at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Cora Tuden.

Mrs. George Paul and son, Billy, of Jefferson City, were recent guests of Mrs. Paul's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bell. Mrs. Bell returned home with her daughter for a visit.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church met in all-day session January 10 at the home of Mrs. Phyllis McCampbell. A noon contributive dinner was served 14 members and two guests, Mrs. Earl Romig and young daughter, who are visitors in the McCampbell home. Mrs. Ralph Stewart presided over the business session, during which the new year's schedule was compiled. Mrs. Phyllis McCampbell led the devotional service.

Mr. and Mrs. Loy Smith entertained with a dinner January 6 honoring Mrs. Elmer Wadleigh and daughters. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wadleigh and son, Harvey; Mrs. Albert Upton and sons, Joe Ed, George and Clyde; Mrs. Elmer Wadleigh and daughters; Mr. and Mrs. James McCampbell and son, Harold, of Windsor; Joseph Upton and Mrs. Ethel Gehle.

Mrs. Elmer Wadleigh and daughters, Myrna Kay and Carole, who have been making an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wadleigh, have returned to their home in Beaumont, Tex.

S. L. Iman, of St. Louis, who recently purchased the Osborne building on Main street, from F. N. Reed, has moved his family to Green Ridge and taken possession of the property.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Skinner and son have gone to High Hill to reside. Mrs. Skinner, the former Anna Hite McCampbell, made her home with her mother, Mrs. Phyllis McCampbell, while Mr. Skinner was in foreign military service.

Miss Glenda McCampbell has purchased the residence property of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Brown in northeast Green Ridge.

Edwin Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson of near Green Ridge, recently arrived in Green Ridge after receiving his army discharge at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. He spent 29 months in service, including 25 spent in the Pacific theater of operations.

Danny M. Elliott has received his naval discharge at Lambert Field, St. Louis, and joined his family at his home southeast of Green Ridge. He was inducted in June, 1944, and served as a gunner on the troop ship Brastage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Acker made a business trip to Iowa and lost 8,663 men, of whom some 7,000 were prisoners.

Later, the Golden Lion outfit returned to battle, its ranks composed almost entirely of replacements, and gave a good account of itself. When the war ended, the division was assigned to the control of 16 prisoner-of-war camps with almost a million inhabitants. Ardennes had been avenged.

Club Outlines Plans for 1946

Miss Alice Alexander, Pettis county home demonstration agent, outlined plans for the new year and commended Mrs. Roy Petty upon her election to presidency of the County council at a meeting Thursday of the Oak Grove Home Economic club at the home of Mrs. O. F. Gorrell. Mrs. C. L. Turner was assistant hostess. "What I Hope to Accomplish This Year" was the subject of roll call. The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Rogers December 27, 1945, was recognized with appropriate words of appreciation. Year books were made out. The following officers will serve during the new year: president, Mrs. Roy Petty; vice president, Mrs. H. A. Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Miss Myrtle Mewes; reporter, Mrs. Fred Welling; parliamentarian, Mrs. W. W. Bolton; child development chairman, Mrs. Herbert Mewes; reading chairman, Mrs. O. F. Gorrell; song and game leader, Mrs. Charles Mawhorter; clothing leader, Mrs. Clifford Mawhorter; home management leader, Mrs. H. A. Wilson.

New Club Members
Mrs. Paul Lewis read the news letter, after which Mrs. Clifford Mawhorter led the devotional service, reading from Proverbs 31:10-31, which lists ten qualities of the perfect homemaker. The name of Mrs. Emil Sievers was added to the club roll. Names for this year's "sunshine pals" were drawn, after which songs were sung, accompanied by Mrs. O. F. Gorrell. Guests were Mrs. Melvin Turner and daughter, Carol Ann, Martha Ann Sievers, Bobby Mewes, Sherry Lynn Evans and Mike Yeater. The February 14 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. F. W. Welling with Mrs. J. E. Pittman as assisting hostess.

More Veterans Request for Farm Loans

Certain Steps Must be Followed Before Eligibility

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16.—(P)—Eighty-four veterans who wanted to own a Missouri farm asked the Veterans Administration to help finance the purchase during its first year of operation under the GI Bill of Rights.

The requests for loan guarantees increased rapidly, however, in the last few weeks of 1945, and the veterans officials in Missouri state that the upswing has continued into the new year.

The veteran who needs help to buy that little place of his own in the country has to follow certain steps before he's eligible for aid from the Veterans Administration:

1. Armed with his discharge papers and a sale contract for the Missouri farm he's chosen, he first contacts a bank or any other lending agency or individual willing to make the loan.
2. If the lender approves the purchase, "forms in duplicate" begin again for the discharged veteran. He files a certificate of eligibility for veterans help, appraisal of the property is arranged, and he applies for a loan guaranty from one of the two regional Veterans Administration offices located in St. Louis and Kansas City. Appraisals are made by agencies approved by the Veterans Administration.

Loan Guaranty
3. Assuming the veteran is approved for the loan guaranty, which means that 50 per cent or up to 4,000 of the investment will be guaranteed the lender by the Veterans Administration, the lending agency then hands over the money, and the Missouri farm is his.

Actually only 54 of the 84 applications made for farms in the state last year were approved. About one-fourth of the applications were rejected and the rest still were pending at the year's end.

As of December 28 the would-be Missouri farmer was granted increased help from the Veterans Administration. The maximum amount of a loan the administration would guarantee was increased from $2,000 to $4,000; the time given the veteran to complete payment was lengthened from 20 to 40 years, and the time he was eligible for a loan was extended to 10 years after his discharge or the official end of the war, whichever was longer. Formerly there was a two-year limit.

Granted In Amendment
All this was granted in an amendment to the GI Bill of Rights.

The veteran who is discharged and then re-enlists is eligible for the same loan guaranty rights under the new amendment.

Keith W. Dancy, loan guarantee officer in the Kansas City veterans office, said that in the western half of Missouri which his office serves, actually only about five to 10 per cent of the loan applications received from veterans last year was for farms.

"I'd say 90 per cent of our loan applications was for homes. The rest were divided between farm and business," Mr. Dancy stated. "We're receiving close to 100 applications a week now for all types of loans."

Size of Loans
The farm loans, made on farms ranging in size from 80 to 240 acres, represented a total investment value of approximately $85,000 in western Missouri alone last year, Mr. Dancy added. This included loans on both real estate and farm equipment and livestock. This contrasts with a figure of approximately $15,000,000 invested in homes in the same area which were bought with loan guaranties from the veterans administration.

All loans approved by the administration, the veterans official emphasized, are made on a four per cent interest basis, and the administration pays the interest for the first year on the amount of the loan it guarantees.

More Light In Liquor Places

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—(P)—A statewide conference of Missouri Baptists went on record Tuesday in support of a legislative measure requiring more light in bars, taverns and set up places in Missouri.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. J. S. N. Farquhar (R) of Cape Girardeau county, has passed the house and is before the senate committee which last night deferred action.

The Baptist resolution reads in part: "Whereas it is the sense of this conference x x x that one of the most fruitful causes of x x x delinquency is the poorly lighted taprooms, taverns and roadhouses where liquor is dispensed, be it resolved that the 300,000 members of the Missouri Baptist church x x x urge the immediate consideration of the bill."

The Baptist group concluded a two day conference here tonight. During the senate committee hearings of the lighting bill, J. G. Kibby of Jefferson City, who said he spoke in behalf of the Missouri council of churches, charged that "sexual delinquency and criminals were bred in the darkly lighted set up places and road houses."

"Boys become bolder and girls appear more willing in the darkened atmosphere of the tavern," he said.

Under provisions of the measure, taverns would have to be lighted at least a 150-watt candle-power bulb for every 1,500 feet of floor space, leaving the administration of the proposed law to the commissioner of liquor supervision.

Dewitt MacKenzie AP World Traveler Reports

Families Live In Caves Near City of Madrid

Death Rate in Cave Colony Is Very Heavy

(Editor's Note—When Dewitt MacKenzie and his wife began their present world tour they promised to report to the AP on the conditions of the children of other lands and how they have been affected by war. This is such a report from Madrid.)

MADRID, Jan. 16—Dear Carol and Major:

This is to report another of the strange and often heart-stirring things which we are encountering on our world tour. In the suburbs of this beautiful old city, with its boulevards and grand palaces, hundreds of families are living in direct poverty in caves dug into the many hills of compact sand. Their fate is indeed sad.

Now before going further we should warn you that you can't draw sweeping conclusions from this extraordinary situation. These cave dwellers don't represent general conditions in Madrid, nor yet in Spain. They are folk who are the victims of the tragedy which follows on the trail of wars and plays its evil tricks on the hapless ones who can't escape.

Still Struggling
To understand this you must know that during the awful civil war of 1936-39 scores of thousands fled to Madrid from the provinces and created a great housing problem, with which the city is still struggling. There were more people than there were homes for them. Then came the World War which made building operations difficult because of lack of material, and so we find the underprivileged digging homes in the sand hills.

Most of the caves are very small—just big enough for the family to huddle together to escape cold winds, and to spread their tattered blankets on the ground for sleep. They do their cooking over little fires built in the mouths of the caves or outdoors. And they are lucky to have any fires at all, for fuel is scarce.

Conditions are terrible in the heavy rains, for the caves often are flooded and clothing and bedding drenched. Worse yet, the caves frequently collapse and sometimes bury whole families, with loss of life.

Visited Cave Folk
Your mother and I visited two colonies of these cave folk and found them smilingly courteous and ready to show us their "homes." Virtually all of them were outside the caves to catch the winter sunshine, for this is about the only heat they get—a godsend but far too little these chilly days. You could see a measure of their suffering from the appearance of the babies, whose little legs were blue and mottled with the cold.

Yes, there were many babies and small children, for life moves on in the caves as it does in the homes of the gentry. The setting is different, but childbirth and death know no restrictions. So babies are born in the sand hills, and perhaps they are lucky when they die before they have had long to suffer.

The death rate in the cave colonies is heavy. There's much disease due to malnutrition, and at best most of the faces show the pinch of hunger. Many of the babies we saw had horrible head colds, and must have felt badly indeed. But they didn't cry. They just looked at you with expressionless, unseeing eyes. I guess they were too ill to take notice, poor little things.

Governor Made Appointments

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16—(AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly appointed Lewis H. B. Breuer of Rolla to the state resources and development commission today and reappointed three other members. Breuer succeeds Paul Keller of Columbia.

Reappointed were George D. Clayton, Jr., of Hannibal; D. W. Snyder, Jr., of Jefferson City and Allen P. Green, Jr. of Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kawiecki and sons Larry David and Ronny, of Albany, N. Y., are here for a short visit with Mrs. Kawiecki's mother, Mrs. Mary Latta, 1216 West Tenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Kawiecki came to Missouri after their little daughter, Carol, who was injured when hit by a car on West Tenth street several months ago and who has been in the Mercy hospital in Kansas City since October.

Troy Sitton, of Portland, Ore., formerly of Sedalia, has gone to Hutchinson, Kas., after a visit here with his two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Shaw, and Mr. Shaw, of 1611 East Broadway and Mrs. S. A. Dickerson and Mr. Dickerson, Fifteenth street and Center avenue. This was his second visit back to Sedalia in thirty-five years and the first Christmas he had spent with his sisters in forty years. He will visit a third sister, Mrs. J. L. Kirkpatrick and Dr. Kirkpatrick, in Hutchinson before returning to his home in Portland. Dr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick also were in Sedalia for the holidays.

Pvt. Louis Demand, who has been spending a fifteen-day furlough with his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Demand, of Smithton, has returned to the hospital at Camp Carson, Colo., where he is a patient.

J. L. Rosenthal and A. C. Lueking returned from St. Louis Tuesday night where they were on a three day buying trip for the Rosenthal store. Mr. Rosenthal purchased merchandise for the clothing department and Mr. Lueking for the dry goods department.

Major and Mrs. Lawrence B. Adams and daughter, Vicki, of Cape Girardeau, are spending a few days in Sedalia, guests at the Bothwell hotel, and visiting with Major Adams' grandmother, Mrs. P. O'Connell, and his aunts, Mrs. C. H. Weaver and Miss Marguerite O'Connell, of Dal-Whi-Mo Court. Major Adams has recently returned from the Pacific area, where he spent 14 months in the Philippine Islands and at Guam. At the conclusion of his leave he will report to Little Rock, Ark., for a new assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Balke and baby, 524 West Third street, spent Sunday in Springfield. Mr. Balke, driver for the Des Moines-Springfield-Southern bus lines, has just returned from military service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Delmain and son, Robert, and Miss Margaret Robinson of Clinton visited Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Parks, 614 1/2 South Ohio avenue. Mrs. Louise Meyer and daughter, Carolyn Jo, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Beger of Boonville are visiting in Sedalia today with Mrs. Regina Franken and Mrs. H. E. Westloch.

Teen-Town Party

A special party will be given at Teen Town for the eighth graders tonight from 7:00 o'clock to 9:45 o'clock.

Marriage Licenses Issued

Robert Thomason, Kearney, N. J., and Verna Mae Conner, Sedalia.

Major English Is Injured

Major Peter English, formerly with the Army Air Forces and for a time at the Sedalia Army Air Field, who since leaving the service has been living at Walnut Creek, Calif., near Berkeley, was injured Sunday when he was struck by the propeller of a plane at a field near Walnut Creek, according to word received by Mrs. English's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Botz, 1300 West Fourth street.

Major English is in a hospital at Martinez, Calif., where according to a telephone call made by Mr. Botz to the hospital Tuesday night, he is getting along nicely.

He suffered a broken wrist, a deep cut on his back and an injury to one hip. If there are no internal injuries and hospital attacks said they believed there were none, he is expected to improve rapidly.

Two Fire Calls, Slight Damage

Two runs were made by the fire companies today and at both fires only slight damage resulted.

The first was at 9:42 this morning to the residence of Earl Thurman, 1503 West Twentieth street, where sparks from a defective fuse had set fire to the residence. Damage of about $15 resulted.

At 2:10 o'clock this afternoon a call was answered to the Herrick restaurant, Second street and Ohio avenue, where grease on a stove had caught fire. Slight smoke damage resulted.

Ship Brings English Brides and Babies

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—(AP)—The 20,614-ton liner Argentina, its hold filled with thousands of diapers, dozens of cribs and bassinets and stacks of pink and blue blankets, is scheduled to leave for Southampton, England, today to bring back 550 brides of American servicemen and their babies.

Army officials said yesterday that 30 per cent of the vessel's return-trip passengers would be children, most of them infants.

Pfc Otis Howe, Jr., In Hospital In Japan

Pfc. Otis Howe, Jr., has been a malaria fever patient at a hospital in Hiro, Honshu, Japan, since December 30, according to a letter received Monday by his mother, Mrs. Mary Howe, 1217 South Lamine avenue. A letter received this morning, however, states that his condition is improved.

Howe has been with an infantry company in the Pacific area since last May.

Sgt. Emil Morris, Jr., Is Back From The Pacific

Hawaii, Midway, Johnston, Neju-Hai, ("the Marines took this in about 10 minutes"), Angur and Pelelu (the Palau islands) Iwo Jima, Luzon, Okinawa, Ie Shima, and Honshu.

Morris covered the second day landing of the 11th Airborne division at Atsugi Airfield late last August, and at 10 o'clock that night started to traverse the 18 miles to Yokohama in a Jap truck, with several other photographers, including a representative from Stars and Stripes, army publication. They pulled up at the Rising Sun hotel, their destination, four hours later. The Sedan described the road as a washboard affair that wasn't wide enough for two motorcycles to pass. He was billeted in Yokohama for 30 days and then returned to Okinawa. An "international league" of American, Russian, Chinese and Australian correspondents and photographers rubbed elbows at the hotel.

Was With Air Force
Morris' unit had headquarters with the 7th Air Force which headquartered first at Oahu, principal Hawaiian Island, then moved on to Saipan and as the lines stretched closer to Japan, to Okinawa.

"Skipper," the G. I. tag Morris acquired, went ashore at both Saipan and Iwo Jima on D-Day plus 5, photographing battle action. He stayed at Iwo until air fields were repaired and P-51's came in to start operations against Tokyo.

At Iwo Jima "Skipper" found quarters in a buried Jap Betty bomber fuselage, surrounded by two-foot walls of concrete and topped with four feet of dirt. This strange structure, according to photo-intelligence, was used by the Japs, prior to the Yank landings as a range-finding station. There was a 10-foot-square underground room at the rear of the queer hide-out. The range station was located 50 feet from the end of an air strip originally used by the Japs and which became the No. 1 U. S. air strip on Iwo.

Pictured Assaults
Assigned to flash his camera bulb at anything of news value in story form concerning Air Force activities and personnel, Morris covered initial assaults, the building of air strips on conquered terrain, weather hazards, helicopter service from a B-29 repair ship offshore and evacuation of U. S. war prisoners. He worked primarily with the 7th and 29th air forces and did some work with the 5th.

The 7th combat camera unit was composed of 23 enlisted men, under the direction of a captain. "Skipper" Morris was one of six who drew assignments as roving photo; the remainder flew with bomb or fighter groups, being attached to an outfit for perhaps six months at a time. Morris, however, racked up 18 combat missions, flying in four different types of planes, ranging from fighter-bombers to the B-29 Superfortresses.

"Weather hazards" was no "still" subject for Cameraman Morris, as far as typhoons go. He was in one at sea, one at Iwo and three at Okinawa. At the latter place the men took to tombs as a place of safety from the gales.

Food Often Scarce
Food often was a scarce item, but one time on Saipan Emil and a couple of buddies were all set for sausage and a slice of ham, when they discovered that a hog was the "enemy" which routed them from a native hut one night. Hearing a disturbance underneath the thatched house, the fellows grabbed their 45's and left for the open. Daylight revealed the pig routing around. After preparing various butchering contraptions made from material at hand and building roaring fires for the necessary boiling water, they discovered, as the water bubbled temptingly, that the hog had evacuated. It was seen no more.

Morris, who earned five battle stars, landed at Seattle January 3, and was released from the army at Ft. Leavenworth, Kas., Monday, and signed up for the enlisted reserve.

Would Retain Islands Needed
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(P)—President Truman said Tuesday this government's policy regarding conquered Japanese islands will be in favor of retaining those we need and placing the others under a United Nations collective trusteeship.

He told his news conference that those islands this country feels it should retain would be placed under an individual trusteeship of this country under this plan, but that the UNO would have to authorize this as well as the other trusteeships.

He said there may be other individual nation trusteeships as well as collective trusteeships, but that this would develop as the question is considered by the UNO.

The President's position was given in response to a question about London reports that American civilian and military officials at the general assembly meeting favored a trusteeship plan while Gen. George C. Kenny, their special military adviser, wanted this country to retain any islands of military value.

A reporter asked the President how long the United States would keep the islands it needed and the President replied as long as we needed them.

Gen. 'Ike's' Speech 'Sounds Okay'
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(P)—The guy who is going to be hardest to convince, GI Joe, greeted Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's demobilization speech Tuesday with: "Well, it sounds okay, but..."

About 200 soldiers collected in Whitehall pavilion, next door to the Library of Congress auditorium where General Ike spoke to congress members. They listened to their boss over loudspeakers.

Of the more than a score interviewed by their reporter, nearly all agreed that the highlight of the speech, from a strictly GI standpoint, was Eisenhower's promise that all men with two and a half years service will be out of the army by April 30.

Rotund Staff Sgt. Darrell Elliott of Sheboygan, Wis., and quiet-spoken Staff Sgt. Sam Muddock of Kirksville, Mo., dropped in to hear Eisenhower while on their way to a separation center.

"If they just stick to this, they'll all be all right," said Elliott. "Always before, the minute something was agreed upon, they threw it out the window and started on something else."

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—When Phil Murray and U. S. Steel president Ben Fairless sit down at the White House today in another effort to head off a steel strike, they'll at least have one thing in common—a very poor opinion of Harry Truman's three "S" men—Snyder, Schwelbach and Steelman.

When Fairless and Murray left the White House after their long wage battle last Saturday, the steel executive invited the labor chief to get into his limousine. Then the two men rode around the block a couple of times chuckling over the way Secretary of Labor Schwelbach seemed jealous of John Steelman, Truman's personal labor adviser and how both joggled elbows with John Snyder, the St. Louis banker who is supposed to be the war reconverter.

At that particular moment, the two men who had been at the opposite ends of the argument for weeks seemed closer together personally than the three Truman negotiators—though actually the day's bickering had not budged them by many fractions of an inch.

Play-by-Play Account

Here is the play-by-play account of what happened.

When Fairless and Murray were first invited to the White House, they expected to see the president himself. However Saturday morning, both received orders to report to John Snyder's office. When they arrived, they found the three "S" men—Snyder, Steelman and Schwelbach—waiting for them. Snyder informed them that the president would not see them at once, but would be available if he were needed. A short time later, the entire conference moved from Snyder's wing of the White House to the cabinet room.

Snyder began by asking the two men if either had changed his position since their conference broke up the day before in New York. Both Murray and Fairless said there was no change. Fairless said U. S. Steel had gone as high as it could go by offering an increase of 15 cents an hour.

Murray pointed out that he had cut his demand from 25 cents an hour to 19½ cents. He also pointed out that the steel workers were still engaged before the war labor board in a year-long argument over a five cent an hour increase still undecided, but certain to go to the union. He urged Fairless to throw that increase into the current negotiations to stave off the strike. Murray said he was willing to yield two cents of the five due to the union in the war labor board litigation if Fairless were willing to yield on his present proposal of a 15-cent increase.

Fairless, however, did not yield. He replied that his company had a rough time getting the other steel companies to go along with a 15-cent increase and that several had done so under considerable pressure. Both Bethlehem Steel and Tom Girdler's Republic Steel are among those who backed U. S. Steel hardest on this.

Meanwhile Snyder, Schwelbach and Steelman sat together pleading for someone to yield. Several times Snyder tried to put the heat on Murray to cave in. Steelman and Schwelbach failed to join with the reconverter on this. They sat silent.

See Truman. Finally, after more than two hours of argument, the three "S" men trooped out of the cabinet room and into Truman's office. Ten minutes later, they came back and escorted Fairless in to see the president.

Truman then gave Fairless a straight-from-the-shoulder lecture. He pointed out that the national interest was at stake, that the administration was being generous to the steel corporations by

THE STORY: Day after day, the story of the steel strike is told. The story of the steel strike is told. The story of the steel strike is told.

SOMEONE had put out most of the lights. Pike would rather Hitt didn't see him—or Roger Bland. But he wasn't going to creep out. He walked quietly across the lobby, reached the broad veranda, and went down the steps.

Here some instinct made him cautious. He turned in close by the porch and stood behind a cluster of evergreens. He waited and listened. And sure enough, the door opened, feet sounded on the porch and someone came down the steps.

It was Bland. He padded across the lawn and Pike could see him craning his neck and staring ahead into the darkness.

When Bland reached the road, Pike moved out from behind the shrubbery and followed him. Something prompted Pike to look back. There in one of the windows he saw a white face peering out with hands cupped around the eyes. Lesley Hitt.

Pike passed the rose trellis. The road dipped and a cool damp breeze came out of the woods. Pike kept 50 yards between them. He listened for cars. Once Bland looked around, Pike stepped into the shadow of a big spruce tree. He waited a few seconds, then came out. Bland was gone.

Pike started along the road again. The sound of his feet on the dirt highway seemed unnaturally loud. Then he heard a soft and stealthy sound in the trees. Rain.

Pike turned up his collar and walked a little faster. The rain began to run off the brim of his hat. Pike could feel it seeping through his coat across offering a four-dollar-a-ton price increase and that the country couldn't afford to let the strike start.

Fairless pleaded that he had no authorization from the industry to go any higher than 15 cents an hour. This, incidentally, is what Murray had warned Fairless would say.

Shaken by Truman's tough attitude, Fairless asked for time to talk the situation over further with his colleagues in New York. He said he needed until Wednesday to get this done. The three "S" men then entered and escorted Fairless back to the cabinet room.

While Fairless had been talking to Truman alone, Steelman and Schwelbach both talked to Murray separately, trying to convince him that they were supporting his case.

Then the three Truman aides escorted Murray to the president. Truman asked Murray if there was a chance of settlement. Murray told him that the only chance rested in the steel company's making a decent offer which would restore some of the lost take-home pay to the 700,000 members of the union.

Murray had informed the White House before the meeting that if the steel strike was settled, then all CIO unions would delay their planned walkouts until there could be further negotiations. Murray told the president that the steel corporation was the piper that played the tune for all big business; that if "Big Steel" made a reasonable agreement, the electrical appliance producers, the meat packers, glass makers, the auto manufacturers would follow suit.

Union Patience Worn Thin. Truman repeated his plea that the national interest was at stake, and said he couldn't let the strike start. Murray replied that he too was anxious to avoid a strike but that after five months of fruitless negotiations, the patience of his members was worn thin.

The president then said that Fairless wanted a little more time to work out a deal. "I believe we can settle in a week," Truman declared. "It would be a national calamity if the steel mills closed down now."

Murray said he would delay the strike a week as a gesture of good faith to show that the union wanted to exhaust every possible avenue before taking drastic action.

The last scene in the long-drawn negotiations was between Truman, Fairless and Murray, together. The president reiterated the need for a settlement and told the two men he wanted negotiations resumed at the White House on Wednesday. Fairless promised to give the entire subject a thorough airing with his associates in New York and to be back in Washington on Wednesday. Murray said he, too, would be on tap for the meeting.

Note 1—Many people consider the steel strike a national calamity. The steel mills closed down now. The steel mills closed down now. The steel mills closed down now.

gers in his mouth and stared in the darkness at the divan. He could feel a tingling in his scalp. Someone was on that divan. Someone lying full length on his back. "Mr. Bateman," he said.

In the silence that followed he could hear a clock ticking somewhere. He went over to the divan. He leaned down and put his ear close to the man's lips. He was not breathing.

Pike lit another match. He held it over the man's face. It was Bateman, all right and his face was still and white. He blew out the match.

A bell rang. The telephone. Pike turned and it rang again. Somewhere in the opposite corner of the room. It rang a third time and the sound of that bell lifted the hairs on the back of his neck.

He crossed the room and found the instrument. He picked it up and listened. He could hear someone breathing on the other end of the line.

"Hello," a voice said. It was a man's voice, muffled, indistinct, but filled with a sharp urgency.

Pike tried to think where he had heard it. He heard a little whirring sound somewhere and a clock began to strike.

"Hello," the voice said again. "Hello. Is that—"

The clock went on striking and Pike put the receiver back on the hook. He regarded the phone sorrowfully. That was a damned fool thing to do—answering the phone like that.

He wiped the headset with his handkerchief. I've got to get out of here, he thought. But I'd like to know what killed Bateman. And who. He wished he dared show a light.

He went back to the divan again. He lit his third match and gazed searchingly into that dead face. There were no marks of violence. No sign of blood. The eyes were open, the lips drawn down. And the toupee was a trifle askew.

That toupee now. Would he have had it on if he hadn't been expecting someone?

There was a sound outside. A car door closed. Someone was coming up the steps.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Missouri stands eighth in the number of rural delivery routes, having a total of 1614 routes, the cost of maintenance of which for the year ending June 30, 1905, was $1,043,295.

A company of the business men of Hughesville, composed of Madison Sterling, Charles Claycomb, Dr. J. C. Bishop, Stone McClure and P. Bruce, cashier of the Hughesville bank, recently bought 40 acres of land adjoining the town on the north and divided a portion of it into lots, there being a total of 136, and disposed of them at $35 per lot. On two of the lots houses were built, one being valued at $1,000 and the other at $500. Yesterday a drawing of the lots was held and afterward each lot was again put up and auctioned off, each party who had drawn lots having an opportunity to bid their lots in or let them go and all stood by their choice and kept their lots at the appraised value. Col. W. D. Ross, the Ottaville auctioneer, conducted the sale.

Constable Jack Chaney has appointed E. R. Adams to serve on his staff of deputies and the latter has gone on duty.

In the competitive drill by the Sedalia Rifles last night the Banthers' gold medal was won by Private Pearl Prine. At basket ball the regulars defeated the second team by a score of 16 to 7. Democrat-Capital Class ads get results, 10 words, 1 week, 80c. Phone 1000.

M. U. Tigers Into Fourth Place
MANHATTAN, Kas., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers climbed into fourth place in the Big Six conference basketball standings last night by rallying in the final period to defeat the Kansas State Wildcats 44-34.
The defeat dropped Kansas State into last place.
Red Moulder, Tiger, forward who scored 16 points for individual scoring honors, sparked Missouri to a 17-17 halftime tie after the Wildcats had led most of the initial half.
Dave Weatherby was high point man for K-State with 11.

Sports Roundup
By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Although the National Federation of state high school athletic associations recently proposed extending school baseball, golf and tennis schedules through the summer, there was little, if anything, said about where the dough would come from. . . . Most schools have to strain their budgets to pay coaches during the regular season (some get only their teaching salaries) and there's no provision for pay in two more months. . . . Looks like a project for baseball's promotion committee—no matter who runs it—and the golf and tennis associations to provide adequate coaching for the kids.

Shorts and Shells
Construction Notes: Pittsburgh has had the dough on hand for a new municipal auditorium for a dozen years and Barney McGinley is still hoping the new mayor is enough of a sports fan to get things moving. . . . And although they may face some competition from a new "bowl" at Baton Rouge, La., the Sugar Bowl folks aren't even talking about adding the 20,000 seats they could use because of the high cost of building.

Quick One
Sam Corensweet, traveling tub thumper for the Sugar Bowl, tells this one about the governor of Oklahoma's visit to bowl headquarters in New Orleans. . . . "Gentlemen," said the Gov., "I'm a man of few words. I want tickets." . . . "We're men of few words, too, governor," the officials replied. "We haven't got any."

Cleaning The Cuff
Tonight's N. Y. U.-Cornell cage tussle marks Jake Cann's 400th game as N. Y. U. coach. . . . Lieut. John Zeczycki, former Marquette U. tackle, recently sent his alma mammy $852,000 to pay his alumni dues. It was in Chinese Central Reserve Bank dollars. . . . Jay Simon of the Topeka, Kas., State Journal claims that Tulsa U. should have picked Ned Day as successor to Henry Franka as grid coach. "Who could be better for a team that has been 'bawling' for the past five years?" Ja. says.

Headches for National League Pro Football

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The National football league's club owners reached for the aspirin bottle and went to the mat with their schedule-making headache again today in the hope of firing one final shot at the young all-America conference.
They've already moved their championship Cleveland Rams to Los Angeles to buck the all-America in one of the "key" pro gridiron cities. They've switched their commissioner from mild Elmer Layden to rough-and-ready Bert Bell for their all-out war with the new rival loop. And yesterday they and three other associated leagues warned all "contract jumping" players that the punishment for bolting to the all-America would be banishment from pro ball for five years.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION OF NOTICE
Circuit Court For the County of Pettis State of Missouri
Plaintiff, Producers Produce Company of Sedalia, vs. The unknown consorts, heirs, devisees, donees, assignees, immediate, remote, voluntary or involuntary grantees, successors and assigns of the following deceased persons: to-wit: C. B. Wells, John W. S. Wells, James W. Warren, Ed. Gayhart, John C. Porter, R. C. Porter, R. R. Powell, George M. Diven, Frederick L. Billon, trustee for the Pacific Railway, L. D. Morse, George W. Embree and John M. Woodbridge, defendants.
On this 8th day of January, 1946 it appearing from the verified application of plaintiff for an order allowing service by publication upon said defendants, the unknown consorts, heirs, devisees, donees, assignees, immediate, remote, voluntary or involuntary grantees, successors and assigns of C. B. Wells, John W. S. Wells, James W. Warren, Ed. Gayhart, John C. Porter, R. C. Porter, R. R. Powell, George M. Diven, Frederick L. Billon, trustee for the Pacific Railway, L. D. Morse, George W. Embree and John M. Woodbridge, all of whom are deceased, cannot be personally served within this state, it is ordered that the application of plaintiff be granted and that service by publication upon said defendants be had as provided by law and that said defendants be and are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against said defendants in the Circuit Court for the County of Pettis, Missouri, the object and general nature of which is to quiet title to plaintiff's real estate and which affects the following described property:

All of Lots numbered One (1), Two (2), Three (3), Four (4), Five (5), Six (6), Seven (7), Eight (8), Nine (9), Ten (10), and Eleven (11) in Block Two (2) of the original plat of the town of Sedalia, Missouri. And that said defendants be and are hereby further notified that the name and address of the attorney for plaintiff is A. D. Sappington, 201 South Seventh Street, Columbia, Missouri; and that said defendants are required to appear and defend this action within forty-five (45) days after the 9th day of January, 1946, and in case of failure so to do judgment by default will be rendered against said defendants.
And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in The Sedalia Democrat, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the County of Pettis and State of Missouri.
A true copy from the record.
Witness my hand and the seal of the circuit court this 8th day of January, 1946.

Weston And Coffman Win In Wrestling
The Angel Wins But The Women's Team Match Tops Card

"She's up, she's up now she's down", screamed little Mae Weston, Leavenworth, Kas., when she gave Ann Laverne, Columbus, Ohio, the works on in the women's team match at the state guard armory before more than 900 persons, Tuesday night. And to make things better, it was the best women's match seen in Sedalia and Matchmaker Gus Karras and Promoter Simon Lask, says it's the best held on the circuit in the past two months.

There's Plenty Action
The four young women produced more action in their match than has been seen here for some time, and not only that they displayed a lot more wrestling and tied in a goodly amount of roughness all to keep the armory hall ringing with fans shouting their approval to one team and the other.

Undoubtedly the match which was to have been the support to the main event in which the Swedish Angel met Lou Newman of Seattle, Washington, proved out to be the headliner as far as the 900 shouting paying customers were concerned. The Angel won two falls out of three and Newman put up a good fight, but it was far from being as entertaining.

Mae Weston, dressed in tight black trunks with blue trimmings, screamed her disapproval at referee Jimmy Parker and had an encounter with him once. She took a whale of a beating, but it was she who won the match for her team on which Juanita Coffman, Houston, Texas, was a member. Coffman did her part and her trigger like manner kept the opponents on guard at all times. She too, took a whipping.

Evelyn Wall, Corpus Christi, Tex., dressed in her pink tights and her red hair dropping down her back, displayed a lot of wrestling holds, and she did a little punishing to her opponents. Ann Laverne, Columbus, Ohio, took the heavy end of the team work and administered the beating, and when she got tired tagged Evelyn in to come through to keep the opponents "hot".

The first fall went to Ann Laverne who gave Juanita a slugging and they got an arm stretch and body smother. It took twenty minutes to finish that first fall. In the second fall period which took eight minutes and 30 seconds, after plenty of action was seen, Mae Weston used a flying mare, headlock, administered a slugging and the body smother to pin Evelyn Wall flat of her back.

Referee Is Ruffed Up
The third and last fall was followed with plenty of action. At one point when Evelyn and Mae were into it, Referee Parker tried to separate them. Coffman got into the ring, Laverne jumped in, Mae Weston tossed Parker on his head. The four women had a free-for-all and before the referee, Parker, knew what was what, Coffman and Laverne were back in their corner and Weston and Wall were wrestling. Biting took place with Mae nipping Laverne, Laverne retaliated and this broke them up. Mae used everything in the book to wear out Ann's arm.

After twenty-nine minutes, packed full of action, Mae made a lunge at Laverne, missed and bounded clear out of the ring into the lap of a fan on the front row. She got up, went back in, grabbed Laverne by the arm and bounced her off the ropes twice, threw her to the mat and won the fall.

The Angel won his first fall from Newman using the body slam and body smother. It took the Swedish boy 11 minutes to win. Then in the second fall, Newman succeeded in ducking under The Angel, lifting him into the air and his shoulders and gave the airplane spin, dropped him to the mat and won in seven minutes.

Bobby Bruns Coming
The third fall took three minutes and 30 seconds. Newman had the airplane spin started but The Angel grabbed a rope causing Newman to become unbalanced and he fell backwards with the Angel on top with a body smother to win the fall.

Next week Bobby Bruns, Chicago, Ill., former heavyweight champion comes to Sedalia to meet "Rube" Wright of Los Angeles, Calif., in the main event. Marshall Estep, Sturgeon, meets Jack Hader of Kansas City; and Lou Newman will clash with Wally Grabb of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Million Dollar Mutuels At The Gulf Stream Track
MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP)—With a million-dollar mutual day on the books, little Gulfstream track—the plant most everyone thought would end up in litigation and weeds—closes its season today after serving notice that it is a permanent fixture in Florida horse racing.
The scene shifts to Hialeah tomorrow where the phenomenal betting and attendance which featured Gulfstream's meeting are expected to be surpassed.

More Than 180 GIs Return to Nat. League
Ball Players Out of Service Faster Than They Were Inducted
By Jack Hand
NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Baseball players are coming out of the service faster than they were being inducted a year ago when the future of the game hung by a thread. More than 180 former GIs have returned to their national league clubs since the close of the 145 season.

Heading the list are such well-known stars as Terry Moore, Max Lanier and Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals; Johnny Mize and Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants; Johnny Vandermeer and Ray Mueller of the Cincinnati Reds; Ron Northey of the Phillies; Bama Rowell and Johnny McCarthy of the Boston Braves; Elbie Fletcher of Pittsburgh and Pete Reiser, Pee Wee Reese and Billy Herman of Brooklyn.

A survey of current National League rosters by Charles Segar, newly-appointed league publicist, showed the names of 336 players who had been in service. Some returned during the 1945 season but a majority of them donned civvies since the world series.

Not all of the demobilized vets are in the Terry Moore-Johnny Mize headline class but several of them probably will mean more to their clubs than the more highly publicized older stars. The Giants welcomed back Pitcher Mike Budnick who has excited rave notices from all the scouts in Horace Stoneham's 42nd street office.

Brooklyn has a rookie mound phenom in Joe Hatten, recently discharged from the navy and Branch Rickey believes ex-GI Les Burge has the makings of a "great hitter."

Ralph Kiner, out of the navy air force, will offer stiff competition for the Pittsburgh outfielders and Catcher Vinnie Smith is a sure-fire No. 1 man of the future.

Each club has its quota of prospects to give the wartime major leaguers a battle and, even before the competition starts, releases have been handed out right and left.

Within the last month over 30 National league players were given back to the minors or shunted their unconditional releases. Most of them were wartime "fill-ins" but the list also included Cliff Melton of the Giants, Steve Messner of the Reds, Al Rubeling and Xavier Rescigno of the Pirates and Debs Garmes of the Cardinals.

Cardinals Again Winter Favorites
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, winter favorites to win their fourth National league pennant in five years, announced a 35-game spring exhibition game schedule today.

The Cardinals will open camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 18 for players who have rejoined the club after serving in the armed forces and those who will be discharged prior to the opening of the season. Regulars from last year and minor league rookies will report to Manager Eddie Dyer on March 1.

About 65 players are expected in the two groups.

S-C Tigers Add Fourteenth Straight Win
Defeat Windsor By Score Of 22 To 20 In Close Game

Sedalia's Smith-Cotton Tigers won another game Tuesday night defeating Windsor by a score of 22 to 20. This makes their fourteenth victory, thus far being undefeated. The game looked like it would turn out a victory for the visitors from the play in the first-half.
The first quarter ended with Windsor in the lead by a score of 10 to 1. The half finished with Windsor in the lead by a score of 16 to 12. Due to the fine teamwork of Egbert, Livengood, Miller and Thomas, Smith-Cotton gained the lead in the last three minutes of the third quarter. The score at the end of the third quarter was 19 to 16 with the Tigers on the big end.

John "Bud" Thomas was the high point man for the night with nine to his credit. With Thomas's scoring and the fine teamwork of the other players the Tigers won. Lovan with eight points was high scorer for Windsor.

Shower Honors on 'Doc' Blanchard

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Felix (Doc) Blanchard, army's great fullback and two-time all-American who has been showered with virtually every conceivable trophy for gridiron prowess, today became the first football player to hold amateur sport's highest honor—the James E. Sullivan award.

Voted annually to the athlete who has done the most to advance the cause of sportsmanship during the year, the 20-year old grid ace from Bishopville, S. C., walked off with the 1945 prize with a total of 923 points in the poll conducted by the National A. A. U.

For the second straight time, Alan Ford, Yale's crack swimmer finished second.
Joe Plata, Chicago's nine-time winner of the national handball crown, was third with 336 points and he was followed by Bill Smith, Hawaiian swimmer, 253; Jim Fafferty, the New York A. C.'s indoor mile champion, 250; Bill Bangert, Missouri track and football star, 209; Dr. M. A. Norbury, San Francisco wrestler, 180; Hazel Walker, Little Rock, Ark., basketballer, 143; and Dr. Oris L. (Arky) Erwin, New Orleans hurdler, 98.

The Sullivan trophy is the 22nd award bestowed on the husky Blanchard since the start of school last fall.

Children Outnumber Weeds in P. I. and Clothing is Scarce

By Hal Boyle
BATANGAS, P. I. —(P)— Philippine pastoral:
Driving from Manila to Batangas you get the distinct impression that the chief product of the Philippines is posterity. . . Hemp, copra and sugar are secondary crops compared to children. . . They outnumber the weeds. . . Clothing is scarce and reserved for grownups. . . The tots wear hats or run around with nothing on but the all-weather surfacing they were born in to protect them from the sun.
The macadam road is in good condition and winds through flat, well-watered fields white with harvest. . . To celebrate this fiesta season of the earth's fulfillment, grateful villagers erect bamboo arches across the highway surmounted by a large cross. . . Thus they blend thousands of years of paganism with brief centuries of Christianity.

Primitive Methods
Men and women work together in waist-deep fields gathering rice. . . They thresh it in primitive fashion by beating the plants against great smooth, circular stones. . . The rice falls to the ground. . . Later it is spread out to dry on bamboo matting and field mice and wandering chickens come by to claim their tithe and nobody seems to mind.
The great-bodied, gray-brown carabao, the work horse of the Orient, lie lazily watching all this industry. . . For all their size, these animals can plow only in the morning and late afternoon. . . If they worked hard at midday, they would keel over. . . The peasants tend them lovingly, washing their hides regularly, for the carabao plays a big role in the native economy. . . They are used for food as well as work and their tremendous horns are turned into bracelets and rings by craftsmen.

Provisions of Fair Labor Standards Act

With Reference To its Child Labor Provisions

Miss Helen M. Haisch, Child Labor Consultant Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Kansas City, Mo., has been in Sedalia conferring with state and local officials on the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.
Miss Haisch states that 16 is the minimum age for general employment in and about establishments producing goods for shipment in interstate commerce. Eighteen is the minimum age for employment in occupations which have been declared particularly hazardous for minors by the Chief of the Children's Bureau. To date the following have been declared hazardous:

1. Explosive-manufacturing occupations.
2. Motor vehicle drivers and helpers.
3. All occupations in coal mining with the exception of specified surface occupations.
4. All occupations in logging and saw milling with certain specified exceptions.
5. Operation of power-driven woodworking machines and certain types of off-bearing.
6. Occupations involving exposure to radioactive substances.

Rules For Minors

Minors 14 to 16 may be employed outside school hours except in the following occupations:

- (1) Manufacturing, mining or processing occupations, including occupations requiring the performance of any duties in work rooms or work places where goods are manufactured, mined or otherwise processed.
- (2) Occupations which involve the operation or tending of hoisting apparatus or of any power-driven machinery other than office machines.
- (3) The operation of motor vehicles or service as helpers on such vehicles.
- (4) Public messenger service.
- (5) Occupations which the Chief of the Children's Bureau may find and declare to be hazardous for the employment of minors 16 to 18.

The hours of work for minors 14 to 16 are:

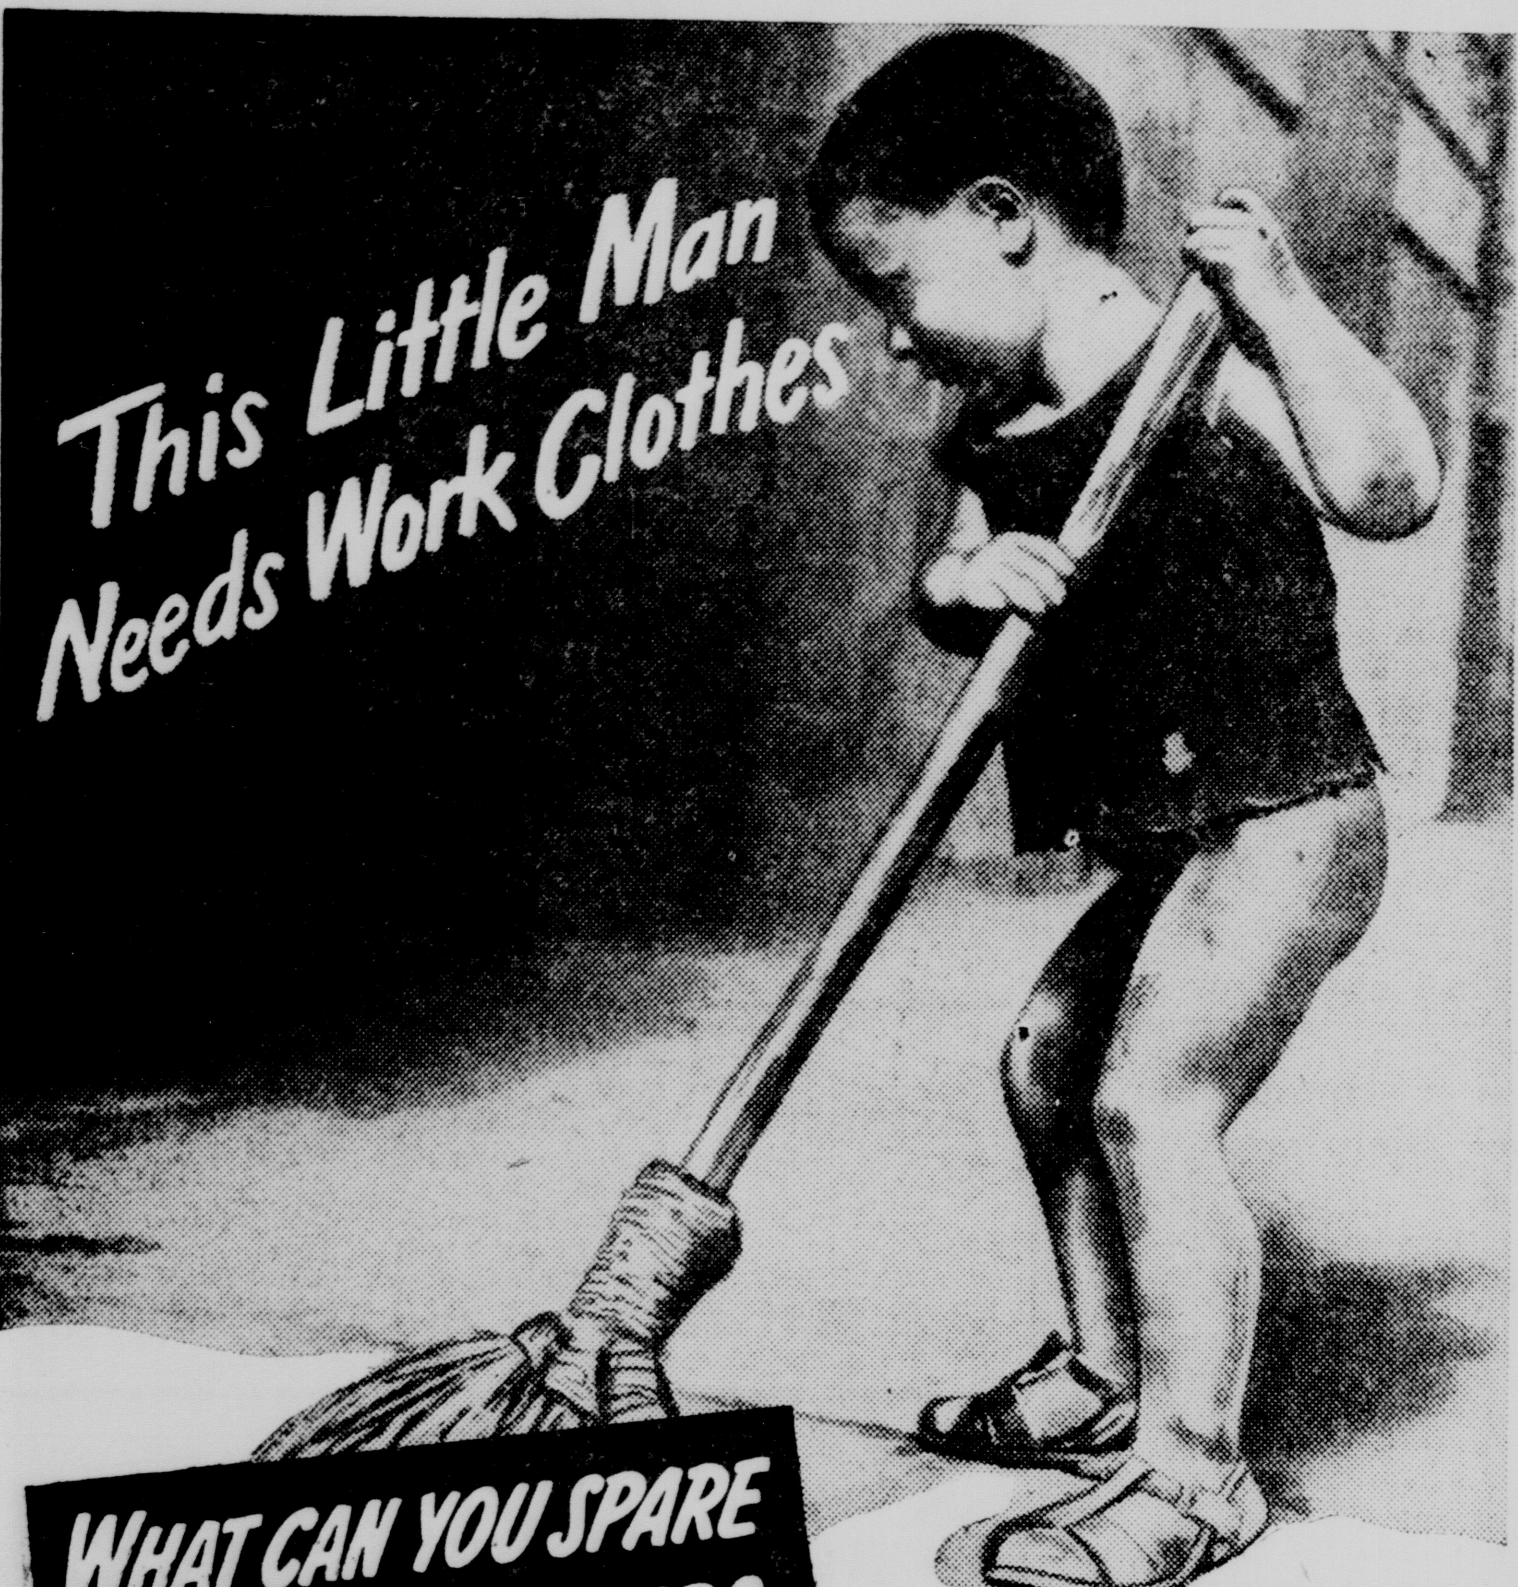

- (a) All work must be performed outside school hours.
- (b) Maximum 3-hour day, 18-hour week when school is in session.
- (c) Maximum 8-hours day and 40-hour week when school is not in session.

Higher Standard Prevails

Miss Haisch pointed out that wherever an employer is governed by two laws with conflicting standards the higher standard prevails. Miss Haisch is urging employers to protect themselves from unintentional violation of the child labor provisions of the act by securing Work Permits for minors who may legally work from 14 to 16 and age certificates for minors 16 years of age and over. These permits and certificates are issued in the office of the superintendent of public schools at Smith-Cotton high school.

Employers wishing information on the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act may write to Miss Haisch, Room 400 Fidelity Building, 911 Walnut Street Kansas City 6, Missouri.
